THE SCHEME

7. During the summer of 2005 Respondents placed advertisements in Chicagoland newspapers offering their "investment banking services" to the public.
8. At least one Illinois resident ("Investor") called for information regarding the offer in response to which Respondents sent Investor their Offering Circular.
9. Respondents' "investment banking services" consisted of offering and selling Charismatic Investment Contracts ("Contracts"), with a 20% monthly return on the principal guaranteed. The Offering Circular stated in pertinent part:

Charismatic Exchange, Inc. is an intimate and exclusive Trading Company in the Foreign Exchange market which deals primarily with high net worth investors and entrepreneurs.... In order for us to regularly trade more foreign currencies in the FOREX market we have formed a lucrative and intimate business opportunity by accepting loans from our partnering Investors where we offer them a lucrative 20% R.O.I. per month. Such a return can only be offered in the high risk, high yield arena of foreign exchange where our trading skills and discipline are par excellence.

Charismatic Exchange Inc. takes the risk on all trades and is obliged to return our clients as promised a 20% return per month until either party wishes to terminate the Agreement. Charismatic Exchange, Inc. covers the cost of all trades, including interest when sitting in overnight trades (when swing or position trading) and takes all risks while trading while affording our Lenders a passive 20% monthly return no matter what the results we experience that month.

I look forward to personally working with you in our mutually lucrative business endeavor. Please feel free to call or email me as the need arises. I take great pride in letting my clients know that they are most liquid with Charismatic Exchange, Inc. while being afforded the most lucrative returns. This gives my clients a great peace of mind to know that they can gain access to their funds without any penalty while lending Charismatic Exchange, Inc. the image we have earned of perfecting our work and being fair, gracious and generous.

10. The Offering Circular also contained charts informing prospective investors how much certain investment amounts would be worth at the end of various time periods; for instance a $20,000.00 investment into Lazar's company would be worth $178,322.00 at the end of the first year if the dividend payments were rolled over into the principal.

11. On August 18, 2005, Respondents sold to at least one Illinois resident (“Investor”) an Investment Contract in the amount of fifteen-thousand and twenty dollars ($15,020.00). The terms of the Contract read:

Charismatic Exchange, Inc. hereby agrees, under corporate and legal responsibility, to pay Lender or assigns a twenty percent (20%) monthly return on the Lender’s principle to be utilized by Charismatic Exchange, Inc. This will continue with extension until termination of the transaction unless either party expresses the desire to discontinue further transactions at which point the principle with said interest is to be returned to Lender at the end of the current month. This is a contingent fee based upon the transaction occurring. If the loan is no longer needed by Charismatic Exchange, Inc., the Company will notify Lender that the purposes of the Loan have been met and the principle with interest will be returned at current month’s end. Likewise, if Lender is in need of his/principle, he/she will issue a notice to Charismatic Exchange, Inc. where Charismatic Exchange, Inc. will be responsible to return the full principle with accrued interest within 2-4 weeks from notice.

12. On August 26, 2005, Respondents deposited Investor’s $15,020.00 into Charismatic’s bank account with other investors’ funds (the “Pooled Account”). The Pooled Account was opened by, and solely controlled by, Lazar.
13. Lazar, however, used the Pooled Account to fund her lavish lifestyle, rather than for its purported purpose: trading in the FOREX market, which in turn was supposed to generate the promised 20% monthly return.
14. Throughout the fall of 2005 and into the winter, Investor called Respondent Lazar to demand the payment of his principal and interest, according to the terms of the Investment Contract.
15. Instead, on December 9, 2005, Lazar offered to exchange Investor’s balance owed for forty-seven five hundred dollars ($47,500.00) worth of Charismatic Exchange, Inc. shares, but Investor continued to demand payment of his principal and interest, according to the terms of the Investment Contract.
16. Throughout January and February of 2006, Investor continued to call Respondent Lazar to demand an explanation on how and when Respondents would pay him his $47,500.00.
17. Respondents refused to answer Investor’s calls or inquiries.

18. On March 2, 2006, Lazar sent Investor, and other investors, a mass-mailing that stated in pertinent part:

“You will be paid out now very shortly...
In a matter of days....”

“I am here!

-Nearing completion.

Wait.

That is all you can do now is wait

and there is nothing more for anyone to do.

But do so with faith.

Sometimes, waiting is the toughest, I empathize.

But let us pick up the lesson then – whatever it is....

And, forgive me for saying, but it just might be our greatest lesson ever..... ☺”

(italics, grammar and emoticon in original)

19. On or about April 4, 2006, Lazar sent Investor, and other investors, another mass mailing criticizing them for calling her, and stating, among other things:

“I can only be truthful, and tell you where we are at. I work diligently to arrive at our payouts. God has never let me down and I don't plan on letting you down. In fact, I am just sure that God is blessing me so with the results I cannot speak of now as a result of my taking care of you as I should. I know you cannot see that now, and that is alright. I promise you will. You will. ...

So, all I can say is: do not even impose upon yourselves the desire to stress yourself out about anything I am not concerning you with. Updates-shmupdates is how I see it: when what I need to do is simply get you your money, and the rest, leave up to me to handle, the hows, the whys, the ways – because that is least stressful for you and for me.”

I pray for each of you that God heal you and give you such a divine peace until I can place so gently and lovingly your money in your hands, which will bless me all the more, I know, So, you cannot want it more than I. I will not fail you, because God never fails me. I do not accept a failing mindset, nor failing ways. I consecrate everything I do to God, resolving all my trials and tribulations, and come out cleansed and blessed beyond measure! I wish and know the same will be for you...”
